Editorial Review

Review

'I am delighted to endorse this book, which considers and debates urban regeneration in Europe. Its comprehensive aim of understanding regeneration problems, is given a unique insight by the use of practical European examples. The resultant conclusions target all that are interested in regeneration issues, and I am sure will assist the development of this topic and its process. It leans heavily on examples, so for a change allows realism to surface! Well done and I heartily recommend a read'.

From the Back Cover

Many old urban areas in Europe are undergoing a radical restructuring of their economic base and are subject to regeneration strategies. There is much political interest in urban regeneration as an element of urban policy and large amounts of public money are being invested in various urban centres.

This book gives a comparative account of the process of urban regeneration in France, Italy, Holland, Belgium, Germany and the UK. It examines the factors influencing these processes, as well as the consequences of their implementation.

Through a mixture of theoretical discussion and detailed case studies, Urban Regeneration in Europe will:

- provide a comprehensive and informed presentation of policies
- discuss the challenges and opportunities faced by old industrial areas
- develop current knowledge and understanding on the urban regeneration process
- put forward an interdisciplinary approach
