Building Solo Lines from Cells By Randy Vincent

Based on an earlier guitar method book, Building Solo Lines from Cells makes Randy's deep knowledge of jazz available to players on any instrument.

This is a practical method for developing the ability to create convincing jazz solos in a wide variety of playing situations II-V-I progressions, Coltrane changes, turnarounds, etc. etc.

A thorough approach to mastering your instrument, the book takes actual lines recorded by the jazz greats and then slices them up into small cells that can be re-combined into longer lines to fit almost any harmonic situation. This enables the player to improvise his or her own solos that sound just as interesting and melodic as the masters, without resorting to simply copying them. An invaluable resource for the serious musician!

Editorial Review

Review

This book is good for ALL instruments. The patterns and exercises are excellent! There is much food for thought here.

JAMEY AEBERSOLD --Personal correspondence

Randy Vincent has put together a comprehensive, thoughtfully presented and practical jazz manual here. It is packed with great examples and analysis for the left-brained jazzer. You will surely find some useful tools here to help expand your vocabulary. BOB SHEPPARD --Personal correspondence

Randy Vincent is a master player and teacher. The information in this book is very thorough and complete and the insights he offers are invaluable to anyone who is interested in improvising. This is a most welcome addition to the world of jazz pedagogy. Thanks, Randy! BRUCE FORMAN --Personal correspondence
